The packet continues to make back-and-forth progress. It isn't smooth, but at least it's happening.

The latest question/request sent back to us involves a better explanation of how the original 50 acre withdrawal area has shrunk to 35 acres (21.9 in the revocation area, and 13.1 in the campground). That was something I had really hoped to avoid as it is not easy to explain it in text. But I've sent it up to Randy and the Cadastral crew, and they'll have something back to me this week.

Respectfully,
